

Face of Fillmore

By Sherry Shepard
July 17, 2019

The first impression of whether or not a community is prospering is most likely what construction is going on within its boundaries and what type of buildings those are.

Fillmore is currently seeing an interesting building trend. Driving down Main Street, a person soon decides that Fillmore is prospering. A new bank is under construction on the north end of Main Street. Driving on to the south, one sees a new home and a new apartment building, as well as the remodeling of an old gas station on the right. Further on, another new bank is being built. That is only what is happening in the center of town. New homes are in various stages of construction all over town.

Fillmore appears to be doing well.

State Bank of Southern Utah

Rock Canyon Bank